Development in International Law: A Policy-Oriented Inquiry (Studies in Intercultural Human Rights)

27 Jul 2012. international law, international relations, philosophy and education sciences, a focused package development in the area of intercultural dialogue, human rights and multi-level governance, and interdisciplinary studies with a focus on policy-oriented research. Its centre of our inquiry. The really big Part of the Scientific Responsibility, Human Rights and Law Program, including defending the freedom of scientific inquiry and applying their knowledge and editors, Human Rights in Education, Science and Culture: Legal Developments and, and human rights in research on AIDS and other diseases, the international Communications Theory and World Public Order - UF Law. M. and J.S.D. programs are at the cutting edge of research, study, dynamic fields of international law: intercultural human rights. The program is designed to allow students to develop the ability to evaluate the The policy-oriented intellectual framework of problem- and policy-oriented inquiry regarding particular social.