Life of Charles Grant: Sometime Member of Parliament for Inverness-Shire and Director of the East India Company

Henry PH.D. Morris

The life of Charles Grant, sometime member of Parliament for Inverness-Shire and director of the East India Company, was a significant figure in the history of Britain and the early 19th century. Charles Grant was born in Kidderpore, Bengal, India, in 1778, and was the eldest son of Charles Grant, chairman of the directors of the East India Company. He represented the county of Inverness in Parliament from 1802 to 1818, and was a Director of the East India Company. He had a distinguished career both in politics and in the East India Company, serving as both a Member of Parliament and as a director of the company. His life was marked by a commitment to religious and moral improvement, and he was known for his integrity and truth. He passed away on the 31st of October 1823, bringing to a close a life that was dedicated to public service and to the advancement of the interests of Britain in India. The life of Charles Grant is well-documented in a number of biographies and histories, and his legacy continues to be studied and appreciated by scholars and historians today.
Grant, a lanky, sandy-haired man with a long, lugubrious pale face, which to the drudgery and details of life and sometimes to its littlenesses. 2 time to attend and chair the Inverness-shire Michaelmas head court, of the select committee on the East India Company, which he chaired, 4 Feb. British Women Missionaries in Bengal, 17931861 - Google Books Result Grant was born in Scotland and went to India in 1767, where, after some setbacks, he prospered financially, becoming a director of the East India Company. India. A member of parliament from 1802 to 1818, Grant identified with the Clapham Download Charles Grant Director of the East India Company, and . The Life of Charles Grant: Sometime Member of Parliament for Inverness-Shire and Director of the East India Company (Classic Reprint) [Henry Morris] on . The Life of Charles Grant: Sometime Member of Parliament for . Læs videre The Life of Charles Grant - Sometime Member of Parliament for Inverness-Shire and Director of the East India Company. Udgivet af Palala Press. The Northern Highlands in the Nineteenth . - Electric Scotland Published in The History of Parliament: the House of Commons 1820-1832, ed. freeholders at their annual Michaelmas head court and immediately before every election. minister Charles Grant had replaced his father as Member for Inverness-shire, sitting on an interest based initially on East India Company and . The life of Charles Grant : sometime Member of Parliament for Inverness-shire and Director of the East India Company. by Morris, Henry. European Slave Trading in the Indian Ocean, 1500–1850 - Google Books Result ?MoRRIs, HENRY. The Life of Charles Grant, sometime Member of Parliament for Inverness-shire and Director of the East India Company. London, 1904, pp. xviii . ?The Life Of Charles Grantsometime Member Of Parliament For . As Grant saw things, the Indian people lacked those qualities of integrity, truth and . him to share his ideas with the Cambridge clergyman Charles Simeon. Grant's effort to influence the revision of the 1793 company charter to include a Pious Sometime Member of Parliament for Invernessshire, and Director of the East. Charles Grantdirector Of The East India Company And Member Of . The life of Charles Grant, sometime member of Parliament for Inverness-shire, and director of the East India Company by Henry Morris . With portraits.